

It Means Green.

It's the original Green Seal of Approval. Since 1989, independent, non-profit Green Seal, Inc. has been safeguarding human health and the environment through science-based standard development and certification.

Green Seal on packaging means a product has been rigorously tested and evaluated for sustainability over its entire life-cycle.

When you want to be sure what you're buying is "green" - and not in-between - look for the Green Seal.

For more information, visit www.greenseal.org.